JVA Technologies Hires New Application Services Client Partner

TALLAHASSEE, FL, 04/07/08 – JVA Technologies, Inc. (“JVA”), a technology consulting firm, recently hired Keith Hay as their new Client Partner for Application Services. Mr. Hay will develop and manage all aspects of the Application Services division of JVA including Application Support, Custom Applications, Database Design and Project Management.

“We are excited to have Keith join our team of technology professionals,” said Lincoln Quinton, Executive Vice President of JVA Technologies. “We have worked with Keith in the past and know him to be a person of high character and technical competence. So right off the bat we know he’s a good fit to our corporate culture. I’m confident Keith will become a great source of wisdom for customers as well.”

Mr. Hay has nearly 20 years of experience as a technology professional having spent most of those years as a developer and project manager. At his most recent employer, an online learning center, he was the Sr. Application Developer and served as a client liaison for many of the U.S.’s top pharmacy retailers.
